

ASUS EEE-PC

I've just been introduced to the "cutest little laptop" I've ever seen. It's the ASUS EEE-PC. It has a smallish 7" screen that keeps the size and weight of the laptop down to LESS THAN 1KG!

It comes with a 4GB "solid state" hard drive, so it's fast, fast, fast. It ships with 512MB of RAM memory which is plenty to run the system because...it operates on LINUX software, NOT Microsoft Windows.

At first I thought this would be a problem, but I see now that it works GREAT on the Internet using Mozilla's Firefox as a browser. This tiny laptop is feature loaded! It comes with: a 10/100 Network port, Wireless 802.11g built-in, a 1.3mp webcam built-in, 3 USB ports, a VGA-out port, Microphone port, headphone jack, SD Card reader, speakers built-in and a 2-year Warranty, as well as a carry case! Even if you've never heard of Linux you'll still love this laptop for a VERY portable computer. I connected it to our wireless router here at the store in a minute and it surfed the Internet flawlessly and fast.

All of this for just $459 is a great deal! You have to see it to believe it. I'm buying one for my son for Christmas this year, he's already familiar with Linux and he'll have a ball playing with it. I think it would make a great travel computer. It is barely the size of a paperback novel.

It comes preloaded with a great selection of software for Productivity, E-mail, Games and Internet.

For more information go to www.eeepc.com.